Dear Friend,

For this month only, I'm suspending the A-Z of success for something a bit different. A colleague sent me the link you'll see below and though I wouldn't normally put this in a newsletter, as a one-off I knew that I had to give you the opportunity to see it because it's stunning.

The aim of 'Reach for the Stars' is to make you think and give you more clarity so if you are ever rushed off your feet or wake up sometimes thinking, what exactly do I want or where am I going, then this will go a long way to sorting out an answer for you.

Most especially, if you are a parent, this will be the most worthwhile 11 minutes you've spent in a long time.

Please don't be put off by the fact that the clip is introduced by Oprah. Just bear with the first 40 seconds while the scene is set. The introduction to this brilliant speech from a Carnegie Mellon University Lecturer is very important.

Personally I think the meaning of Life, the Universe and Everything is not actually '42' (apologies to Douglas Adams). I think the meaning is right here. See if you agree. Links to the clip are just below.

Here is is again. Live like your life depends on it.
